FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

V-COMM RATED A TOP CONSULTANT OF 2011

(December 2011) - The readers of MissionCritical Communications magazine have chosen V-COMM, L.L.C. as one of the top consulting firms in the nation in the area of public safety communications technology. This list of the "21 Top Consultants" was published in the November-December 2011 issue of the magazine.

"This is a great honor for V-COMM," said Dominic Villecco, the company's President and Founder. "I would like to thank the talented V-COMM staff whose dedication and hard work has been rightfully recognized. The mission of V-COMM is to provide high quality engineering services, necessary to satisfy the needs of the telecommunications industry. This recognition is a testament to our efforts."

MissionCritical Communications delivers information on wireless voice and data solutions for mobile and remote mission-critical operations. The magazine targets public safety, state/local/federal government, transportation, field service, business and industrial users; engineering and consulting firms; mobile communication dealers/resellers; service providers and other industry professionals in the United States and Canada. Editorial content includes business and regulatory news, in-depth features, product information and comparisons, industry reports and trends, innovative applications, emerging technologies, case studies and technical tips.
